

Growing for the community

Planning out a new sign for the 'Grow Windham' vegetable garden at Lauter Park in Willimantic recently was, from the left, Winston Coleman, volunteer, Sally Milius, director of Grow Windham and University of Connecticut interns Madelin Stagnito, a biology major, and Shelby Brely, an environmental law major. According to its website, Grow Windham was 'founded in the fall of 2010 as a collaboration between the Willimantic Food Coop and the Town of Windham to support the development of school and community vegetable gardens in the Windham region.' For more information on Grow Windham, visit www.growwindham.org.

Al Malpa

